Legislature to Face Gas Tax Raid Again

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

California's state gasoline tax, which has been the storm-center of bitter and protracted battles in bygone sessions of the State Legislature, promises to stir up another battle-royal during the 1935 meeting of the law-makers.

At least three proposals for changes in the tax and in the system of allocating its revenues are certain to make their appearance in the Legislature, according to present indications. And each of the suggested changes will generate days of heated controversy, if the legislatators run true to form.

Here are the three amendments which are under consideration by various groups of submission to the Legislature:

1. Diversion of part of the gasoline tax revenues from highway purposes to the general fund to help meet the state deficit.

2. Increase of the present 3-cent tax to 4-cents, with the additional income being allocated to general revenue purposes. There have also been some suggestions that the tax might be increased to 5 cents.

3. Allocation to California cities of ½ cent of the present 3-cent levy to build and maintain city streets without special assessments.

The proposal to divert gas tax revenues to the general fund is not new. It was submitted to the voters less than two years ago, with a stipulation that the money was to be used to pay for the interest and redemption of highway bonds, but was decisively rejected.

Since that time, however, the state deficit has doubled and trebled, with every indication that the forthcoming Legislature will be forced to find more than $100,000,000 in new revenues. And the pressure for diversion of gasoline tax revenuses to cover some part of the present general fund shortage has greatly intensified.

The terrific deficit confronting the State is also responsible for the proposal to increase the gasoline levy to 4 cents, or more, with the additional revenues going to the support of general government. And with determined opposition to any increase in property taxes, plus violent opposition to any plan to increase the sales tax, the suggestion that the gas tax be used as a general revenue measure will undoubtedly have strong support in some quarters.

The proposed amendment to allocate ½ cent of the gas tax to the cities is sponsored by the League of California Municipalities and is likely to have the support of such powerful groups as the two state auto clubs (leading opponents of the diversion proposal); the State Chamber of Commerce and possibly the State Department of Public Works.

At the present time, under an amendment enacted during the 1933 session of the Legislature, the cities are allocated ¼ of a cent of the tax for city street work. In addition to asking that the ¼ cent be increased to ½ cent, the League of Municipalities will make a drive to have the state finance all expenses of state highways within cities---approximately 1,000 miles, in total!

California farmers, considering the various tax proposals, must not render hasty judgment. The financial crisis at the 1935 session of the Legislature will be the greatest in the history of California state government. And when the smoke of battle clears from the general election, every California citizen, if he values his pocketbook and the welfare of his State, must give serious attention to the financial dilemma confronting government.

To further constructive action, every group sponsoring tax amendments should submit its proposals to public scruitiny before the Legislature convenes. And California taxpayers should take time off from their personal affairs to make their partnership with government a reality, rather than a theory.

GOLD WHERE YOU FIND IT— IN CARSON MINT

CARSON CITY, Nov. 5—Francis X. Healy, of San Francisco, with a crew of assistants, is mining for gold and silver in—of all places—a United States Mint.

Representing the director of the mint, Healy came here to direct this dismantling of the famous Carson City Mint which is being converted into a government relief headquarters, and believing that "gold is where you find it," he and his crew of workmen are prospecting for the precious metals as they work. And they are finding it, too.

More than $50,000,000 in gold and silver was received for coinage by the Carson City Mint between 1870 and 1893, most of the metal coming from Virginia City's famous Comstock Lode. With all that bullion coming in, Healy believes the mint operators of those early days could not be bothered about small amounts of gold and silver which were lost during the coinage operations.

Healy and his crew have found gold and silver almost everywhere in the old stone building. No estimate has been made concerning the amount recovered.

In the coinage operations, gold and silver dust was given off and during the years that the mint was running, this valuable dust settled in every part of the building. Some silver and gold was also lost when molten metal was spilled while the coins were being made.

With painstaking care, every part of the building has been searched. Even the soot has been scraped off the inside of the chimneys.

All free gold and silver, and everything that might contain the dust is being shipped to the recovery department of the San Francisco Mint.

The most spectacular find that has been made to date was the recovery of a gold and silver bar in a vault that had not been opend for more than twenty years.

Weighing thirty-six ounces, it is valued at about $200 at the present price.

APPLE ORCHARDS ATTRACTS BEARS

CAMPTONVILLE, Nov. 3—Bears appear to be plentiful in this section this fall, and their appearance in abandoned apple orchards is very noticeable. A few days ago Guy Robinson, cattleman from Grass Valley, while taking out his cattle for the winter, met up with a big brown bear weighing about 400 pounds, in the neighborhood of Nigger Tnt. Gales orchard is a favorite spot for these animals due to the large amount of apples there. A number of these animals also inhabit the vicinity of the northern end of Bullard's Bar Dam. The trapping season on these and other fur bearing animals opens the 15., after which time some of them will probably be brought in.

Bear hunting brings back the memories of olden days when the old timers brought down the old bruins, a great prize, their sides making bacon, the hide a fine rug, and the oil, a wonderful hair tonic and boot grease. It is known to waterproof leather, but as for the hair, well, it was hard on the pillowslips, anyway.

JAMES O'BRIEN MEETS TAHOE UKIAH COMMITTE

James K. O'Brien, of Smartsville, motored to Nevada City yesterday and met with the rest of the committee selected to plan for the celebrating the completion of the Tahoe-Ukiah highway.

Mr. O'Brien, who is called "father" of the Tahoe-Ukiah highway for his faithful work in starting this big task, was chosen chairman of the day.

A list of names were selected for invitations and consideration was given for the arrangements.

Miss Dorothy Bosanko, stenographer for District Attorney Will Wright, returned Sunday from a two week's vacation spent in the bay region.

U. S. CONTROLS INFLUX OF NEEDY TO CALIFORNIA

Through increasingly effective cooperation between various official agencies in the state, a comprehensive program for decreasing the influx of transients into California is now in the process of development, according to announcements today of H. A. R. Carleton, state director of the Federal Transient Service, the organization in charge of handling non-resident indigents within the state.

Last year at this time, before the Transient Service began opration, ther was almost no restriction on freight-train riding by itinerants---their chief mode of ingress into the state. Action by railroad authorities to put the men off the trains was considered inadvisable because of lack of facilities in the various towns for caring for the transients who would thus be stranded, Carleton pointed out.

Now that shelters, work camps and other facilities have been provided by the government to take care of indigent non-residents, railroad officials felt justified in putting free riders off of westbound trains, and they are also working with police authorities in California cities in making arrests of freight-riding itinerants, booking them for non-payment of fares, it was learned.

Promise of co-operation in halting the influx of penniless intinerants coming into the state as drivers of caravan cars, was forthcoming last week from Donald Renshaw N. R. A. state compliance director, who informed Carleton that he proposed to prosecute dealers and operators of caravan cars who were violating NRA wage codes. This action, it is expected, will also prove an effective factor in halting the transient tide, since an estimated 1,000 itinerants per month have been coming into California through this means.

Assistance of automobile associations and organizations as well as that of individual motorists is being sought by the Transient Service in reducing the amount of hitch-hiking another mode of transportation responsible for bringing large numbers of indigents into the state, Mr. Carleton declared.

These various co-operative efforts when put completely into practice, should prove effective in halting a large proportion of the incoming tide of individual transients, who are arriving in California chiefly by the three methods of transportation referred to, according to the transient head.

Additional plans will have to be worked out, however, for restricting the influx of indigent families, most of whom have sufficient funds to get to California in their own cars or via other means of transportation but lack the money to support themselves or to return home once they have arrived within the state, Carleton said.

Meanwhile, assurance was given by the transient director that itinerants, both individuals and families, who become stranded in the state would not have to be supported by local, county, or state agencies, but would be cared for by the Transient Service until they could be returned to their homes.

MORE NEW HOMES

George Cacic, known to his many friends as "Big George," purchased a lot on Cottage street in Nevada City several months ago and has built his ideal home. It is a two-story building with stucco outside and plaster inside, the kitchen and bathroom being finished in enamel. Six by eight timbers were used throughout for strength.

George Bowden has just completed a new home for himself at Town Talk.

The Union Blue mine, which is a part of the Relief Hill Gravel property holdings, is to reopen under Messrs. Clark and Taylor. One crew from the unemployment or SERA camp at the southern limits of Nevada City, are burning brush in the Clipper Creek district, just back of the Lava Cap mine. This brush was cut this summer and is now dry enough to burn. Another crew spent today northwest of Nevada City on Cement Hill burning brush.

A telephone line is being built by a crew from Shady Creek, eleven miles north of Nevada City to the SERA camp. The state will establish a summer fire camp there next season. State Ranger Will F. Sharp and assistant George Howe, are in charge of the men.

RAINFALL TO DATE 5.17

From the rain gauge at the home of Mrs. Jennie Preston we learn that 1.04 inches of rain has fallen since November 1. The season's rainfall figured from July 1 to November 5, gives a total of 5.17 inches while for the same period last year the amount was 5.77 inches. Last year there was some rainfall every month while this year there was no rain in July and August.

Hoge Development Program Announced

Arthur W. Hoge, president of the Great Northern Gold Mines, Inc., advises us that their operations for the present are on a leasing system basis and that the leasers and the company are both making a substantial profit out of the operation.

He states that this system of leasing will probably coninue for a period of several months and also advises us that plans are underway whereby they expect to start an active program of development within the next four or five weeks.

The Great Northern operation, which is commonly known around town as the Hoge Mine, has had a most substantial production up to date and it is the general opinion of those who have examined the property that with the proper system of development it will develop into one of the big producers of the camp, because the average value of the ore that has been extracted up to date has been higher than the general average of the camp as a whole.

There are several veins in the Foot Wall country along the contact and also a known vein in the Hanging Wall country along the contact, and another one that lays just east of the contact and parallel to the same, and none of which have as yet been opened up or developed, and it is the general opinion that when this is done that the output of the mine will be increased to such an extent that they will soon be able to have a production of approximately 100 tons per day.

It is a part of the program also to sink their main shaft deeper and to get a junction of the vein system on the contact where two known veins will come together at a depth of an additional 150 to 200 feet.

It is the plan of the Great Northern Gold Mines, Inc., to also acquire a one-half interest in the properties of the Hoge Development Company and to likewise open up and develop an additional operation on a substantial scale.

The Great Northern and Hoge Development properties, as a whole, take in a large territory covering a length of over 7,000 feet along the contact and runs from Blue Tent over to the present Murchie holdings.

When the present plans of development are carried out on this large group of properties, it is the opinion of the best engineering authorities in the camp that these operations will produce handsome returns as they are in a proven territory that has produced the highest grade of sulphide ore anywheres in the camp with the exception of the Murchie, which adjoins the Hoge Development Company property.

MARYSVILLE MAN IS HURT CRASH AT GAULT BRIDGE

A Graham-Paige car driven by John Fosulis, of Marysville, collided with an Alpha Stores truck, driven by Eldridge Skehan at the south end of the Gault Bridge this morning at 8 o'clock. John Zervis also of Marysville who was sitting in the rear of the car driven by Fosulis, was severely cut about the head and was taken to the Nevada City Sanitarium, where he is under the care of Dr. W. B. Hummelt.

Police Chief Garfield Robson, who was at the scene of the accident, soon after it happened, reported that the Marysville car skidded on the slope coming down to the bridge, because of the icy condition of the road, and collided with Skehan who had stopped his truck. The cars were only slightly damaged.

MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO THEFT ON GUN CHARGE

L. O. Kelso was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail this afternoon by Judge Walter L. Mobley, for stealing a 22 rifle and a Colt 38 revolver and six dollars worth of ammunition from the Alpha Store in Nevada City a month ago. Kelso was apprehended by Sacramento police officers last Friday and brought him back here for trial. The man confessed he was guilty of the theft of the two guns to Sheriff George R. Carter and told where he had hidden the rifle in a cabin on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway, where it was found Saturday.

Kelso waived trial and hearing, and immediately plead guilty to the charge and was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail.

SPOTSWOOD PROPERTY

The Spotswood property, near Graniteville, which has been worked by the Graniteville Gold Mining Company for the past several months, was closed down for the winter a few days ago. The company has spent several thousand dollars in cleaning out the old workings a part of which was a long tunnel and extended ti for some distance. This property was owned by the late Fred Searls Sr., and was being operated by the present company, a part of the men being Fred Searls, Jr., William Simpkins and George Kervin.

The Rev. Charles Washburn, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, probably got the last fish of the season Wednesday afternoon, when during the rainstorm, he hooked five 14 inch trout in the forebay of the P. G. & E. reservoir near Colfax. The trout there refuse to rise in anything but rain or a snow storm.

The big 300 ton daily capacity Marcey mill at the Idaho-Maryland property is rapidly nearing completion and General Manager E. MacBoyle expects to have the mill in operation by November 20. Development and milling continues at the Brunswick property from both old and new shafts.

Improvement continues to be made on the shaft boring machine, which is still in the experimental stage. Several adjustments have been made with the result that about nine inches an hour can be cut in the hard rock in sinking operations.

"A HEART FOR ANY FATE"

Through this campaign the Nevada City Nugget has consistently pleaded the wisdom of avoiding either of the two extremes in choosing a governor of California.

Sinclair, an honest, but deluded and impractical dreamer is not a man to trust in the pilot house in the present crisis.

Merriam, backed by extremely wealthy and selfish groups, has seemed to us a greater threat to peace and adjustment to changing conditions, than Sinclair and his absurd Epic.

For Merriam has rarely voted for any measure that would not promote the interests of his wealthy friends. In this campaign huge sums have been spent to elect him. His allegiance should be even more serviceable to those whose money elected him, if he is elected, than it has been in other offices he has held. His very name challenges the radical following of Sinclair as well as all forward looking citizens of the state of progressive or liberal leanings. Trouble looms large on the State horizon with such a man as Merriam in office.

The safe course, it has seemed to us, would be to elect Raymond L. Haight, Progressive candidate. Neither of his opponents are Native Sons. Both have come here after distressing political experiences in other states. But Haight, born and reared in California, has not only the education and upbringing that a governor of California should have, but he alone has been careful to prepare a sound, feasible and constructive program for caring for the unemployed, for rehabilitating the state's depleted Exchequer, and for readjusting the tax burden.

Nothing has occurred during the campaign to cause us to reconsider this argument. If he is defeated it will be due to a shirking of the real issue here presented by a large number of voters, who are moved by one consideration alone, that of expediency.

But whatever befalls at the polls tomorrow we know that the people of the great state of California, will carry on. We await the event "with a heart for any fate."

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Alexander McNulty

THE ELECTION TOMORROW

As election day approaches, interest and speculation as to the results of the three cornered fight for the governorship in California becomes more and more intense.

The nation has witnessed and is witnessing one of the bitterest political campaigns that has ever been waged in America. Against Sinclair, practically every newspaper, every organization and club (except his own EPIC clubs, and virtually all the business world is ranged solidily. The tremendous popular support that he received in August at the primaries has, as a consequence of this unprecedented storm of propaganda, diminished; until at this time, a week before election, all signs seem to point to an overwhelming victory for Merriam.

It is extremely interesting, to anyone interested in matters that have to do with action of great masses of people acting on impulses deriving from influence such as the present flood of publicity; to consider that had the the election been held prior to September 15., Sinclair would have been elected by a huge majority. If the election were to be held today, he would be defeated by a greater majority. What the situation may be is still very questionable.

There is one point however, to keep in mind. A great deal of the support given Sinclair during the early part of the campaign was by people who are not to be classed as the unemployed; people who honestly believe in his sincerity and ability to improve the situation in California. It is this class of people principally whose sympathies have been swung away from Sinclair by the flood of pamphlets, newspaper and radio publicity and other propaganda disseminated by the opposition. It is this same class of voters whose sympatihies and support may very conceivably swing back ton Sinclair when it comes time to vote.

It is indeed, asking too much of the average citizen, to expect that he should thoroughly analyze and correctly solve the questions of policy involved in this campaign. On these questions, experts who have given years of study to these things cannot agree. The average voter in deciding who will get his support is influenced by what he reads and hears.

In the present campaign, the flood of propaganda has been so tremendous, the accusations and denunciations so malicious that, unless it has been very accurately timed, it may defeat its own purpose.

Among the unemployed, especially in Southern California; solid support of Sinclair is conceded. This other group however, which includes farmers, small property owners etc., and whose support is necessary if Sinclair can win, may very possibly throw their support back to him. The unnecessary violence with which the campaign has been waged may have perhaps been overdone. Some people are bound to question if a man could be as black as Sinclair has been painted, and when this doubt arises, the sympathies of many will revert back to him.

Mass psychology is a funny thing and we are witnessing a demonstration of mass psychology at its best in this struggle. If Sinclair's opponents timed their propaganda right, he will be defeated. If they unloosed their barrage too early, he may still possibly be elected.

COUNT OF MONTE CRISTO PLEASES ALL AGES AND TYPES OF PEOPLE

In preparation for nearly a year before a single scene was filmed, the million dollar production of "The Count of Monte Cristo," which begins tonight at the Nevada Theater, is hailed as one of the few really big "specials" to come out of Hollywood since the advent of talking pictures, and a forceful answer to the public demand for entertainment of world-wide appeal for all ages and all tastes.

Search for the ideal ponsonality to play the character of Edmond Dantes, familiar to countless readers of the story in every civilized country, finally resulted in the choice of Robert Donat, handsome young English screen and stage star, whom American audiences saw as the dashing Thomas Culpeper in "The Private Life of Henry VIII."

Carefully casting the rest of the story, the producers recruited outstanding personalities not alone for the principal roles, but for the countless supporting roles as well. Elissa Landi was the final choice for the role of Mercedes, Dantes' sweetheart; Louis Calhern won the part of de Villefort; Sidney Blackmer was cast as Mondego; O. P. Heggie became the Abbe Faria; Irene Hervey was given the role of Valentine; William Farnum was chosen to play Captain Le Claire, and Raymond Walburn was cast as the villian, Danglers.

There will be a matinee Tuesday at 2:15 for the showing of this fine picture.

"RICHEST GIRL IN WORLD"

If you were the richest girl in the world and met a young, handsome man who expressed his love for you, how would you find out whether he loved you, or was attracted by your millions?

Miriam Hopkins has a unique solution to this problem in "The Richest Girl in the World," the new RKO-Radio Picture with Joel McCrea and Fay Wrey, which will be shown Wednesday and Thursday at the Nevada Theater.

Miram solves the problem by posing as Fay, her secretary, before the suitor in question. She then forces McCrea upon Fay, masquerading as the heiress. His reaction and his discovery of the exchange of roles provides a surprising series of situations.

"The Richest Girl in the World" also casts Henry Stephenson and Reginald Denny under William Seiter's direction. Norman Krasna is the author. There will be a matinee Thursday at 2:15.

FIRST AID FOR APPLE GROWERS

That is the purpose of Safeway Stores and affiliated companies in announcing an extensive advertising and merchandising campaign for apples, which will be conducted all next week throughout the company's territory.

Following conferences between Safeway executives and apple growers representing all the producing areas, it was found that the industry mush face the necessity of moving a surplus which has not been materially reduced by the drought. The fact that this year's western crop will exceed the 1933 production has been regarded as a market influence which calls for action.

Safeway executives, however, believe that the public will be more then glad to lend a helping hand to the apple growers if they are advised of all the facts. Therefore, the campaign will be primarily informative.

Thousands of cases were moved in a similar campaign conducted by the company last year, and it is expected that the total sold through Safeway Stores this year may exceed six million pounds.

Apple growers have expressed their whole-hearted support of the campaign, and have arranged to supply the company with the choicest fruits and the widest variety.

GROCERY TRADE MAKES BEST PROGRESS IN YEARS

NEW YORK.—The increase in the consumption of foods, which started last year and carried the total for the country to around 90,000,000 tons, for which the public paid approximately $18,000,000,000, has proceeded at a more rapid rate thus far in 1934. With the exception of May to July, monthly distributive totals have been successively higher, with abrupt gains reported for both August and September. The curtailment of sales in some of the industrial centers, and the unemployment increases in districts where there has been a lack of FERA activities, have been more than counterbalanced by the increased expenditures of farmers.

Buying from wholesalers and manufacturers is being done with more confidence than last year, orders are for larger amounts, and a growing percentage of the better grades of goods and fancies are being included, according to a survey of the grocery trade, which has just been completed by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

LAVA CAP MINE

Drifting operations are in between 1200 and 1400 feet to the south on the 800 foot level in the Banner shaft at the Lava Cap mine. At the Central shaft on the 600 foot level the drifting operations have progressed north 150 feet. Both faces are in good ore and between 200 and 250 tons are being mined and milled per day.

In mine operations last week a crew drilled into a drift that had been mined out on the third level several months ago and which contained quite a pocket of water. The old drift was about 10 feet above the men at work and as soon as the water was contacted the crew came to the surface leaving the water break through and flow into the sump. It filled the sump about an additional 70 feet which was soon pumped out with the men being in no danger at any time.

BLUE BIRDS HAVE PARTY

The Blue Bird Camp Fire Girls, with their guardian, Miss Joan Grant, gave a progressive party on Hallowe'en evening. The party began at the home of Joan Grant. Each child cut a face in her pumpkin and was presented with hats, wierd characters, a mask, nearly all were dressed in costumes. Refreshments were served. Betty Rore won the door prize. Next they visited Miss Kreutz and Mrs. Ford. Mrs. R. L. P. Bigelow's granddaughter was a charter member and invited the children there and presented them with candy. From there they journeyed to the home of Mrs. Nat Jackson, assistant guardian. She had hidden favors for the children and when they were found each was presented with a bag of pop corn.

From there they went to the home of Mrs. William Lee, there a gypsy drew out of all sorts of amusing favors from a large cauldron for them.

Those present were: Betty Jane Rore, Walter Rore, Maidna Mae Waite, Leah Waite, Betty Jean Jacobs, Joan Lee, Helen Butz, Joan Grant, Mrs. Tony Rore and Jewel Frost.
